Account Executive

Derrick Coy is part of an experienced Biotech, Life Science and Biomedical recruiting team that has over 18 years of experience in executive search. He recruits exclusively for the Biotech, Pharmaceutical, and Scientific Instruments Industries, primarily focusing on positions at the service & sales level. This focus allows him to recruit for his clients on a national level.

Mr. Coy prides himself on working with candidates of high ethical standards, solid job stability, and strong technical expertise.

He works with individuals that can bring immediate value to his clients. His focus and experience assist him in knowing the Service and Sales industry well. He works with all sizes of companies, from start-ups to multinational corporations, assisting them in finding talented individuals that will build teams, service equipment and improve the overall profitability of the organization(s).

His candidates seek careers with companies that have proven track records, have a sound culture, and are forward thinking in their approaches. His client companies have come to expect superior performance from the candidates he represents.

Mr. Coy holds a Bachelor's of Science in Communications, Public Relations and Advertising from the University of Southern Indiana. His philosophy is centered on building long-term relationships with his clients. He wants to know their needs and offer solutions for those needs as quickly and as efficiently as possible.
